PHILOSOPHY

The administration, faculty, and staff of Coahoma Agricultural High School believe that the ultimate goal of education is to equip each student, insofar as his capacity permits, to become an intelligent and productive citizen in the age in which he lives. This is done by helping each student become aware of his potentials, by guiding him in participating in experiences which will strengthen his development according to his own ability, and helping him through sound instruction to acquire skill for independent thinking and intelligent use.

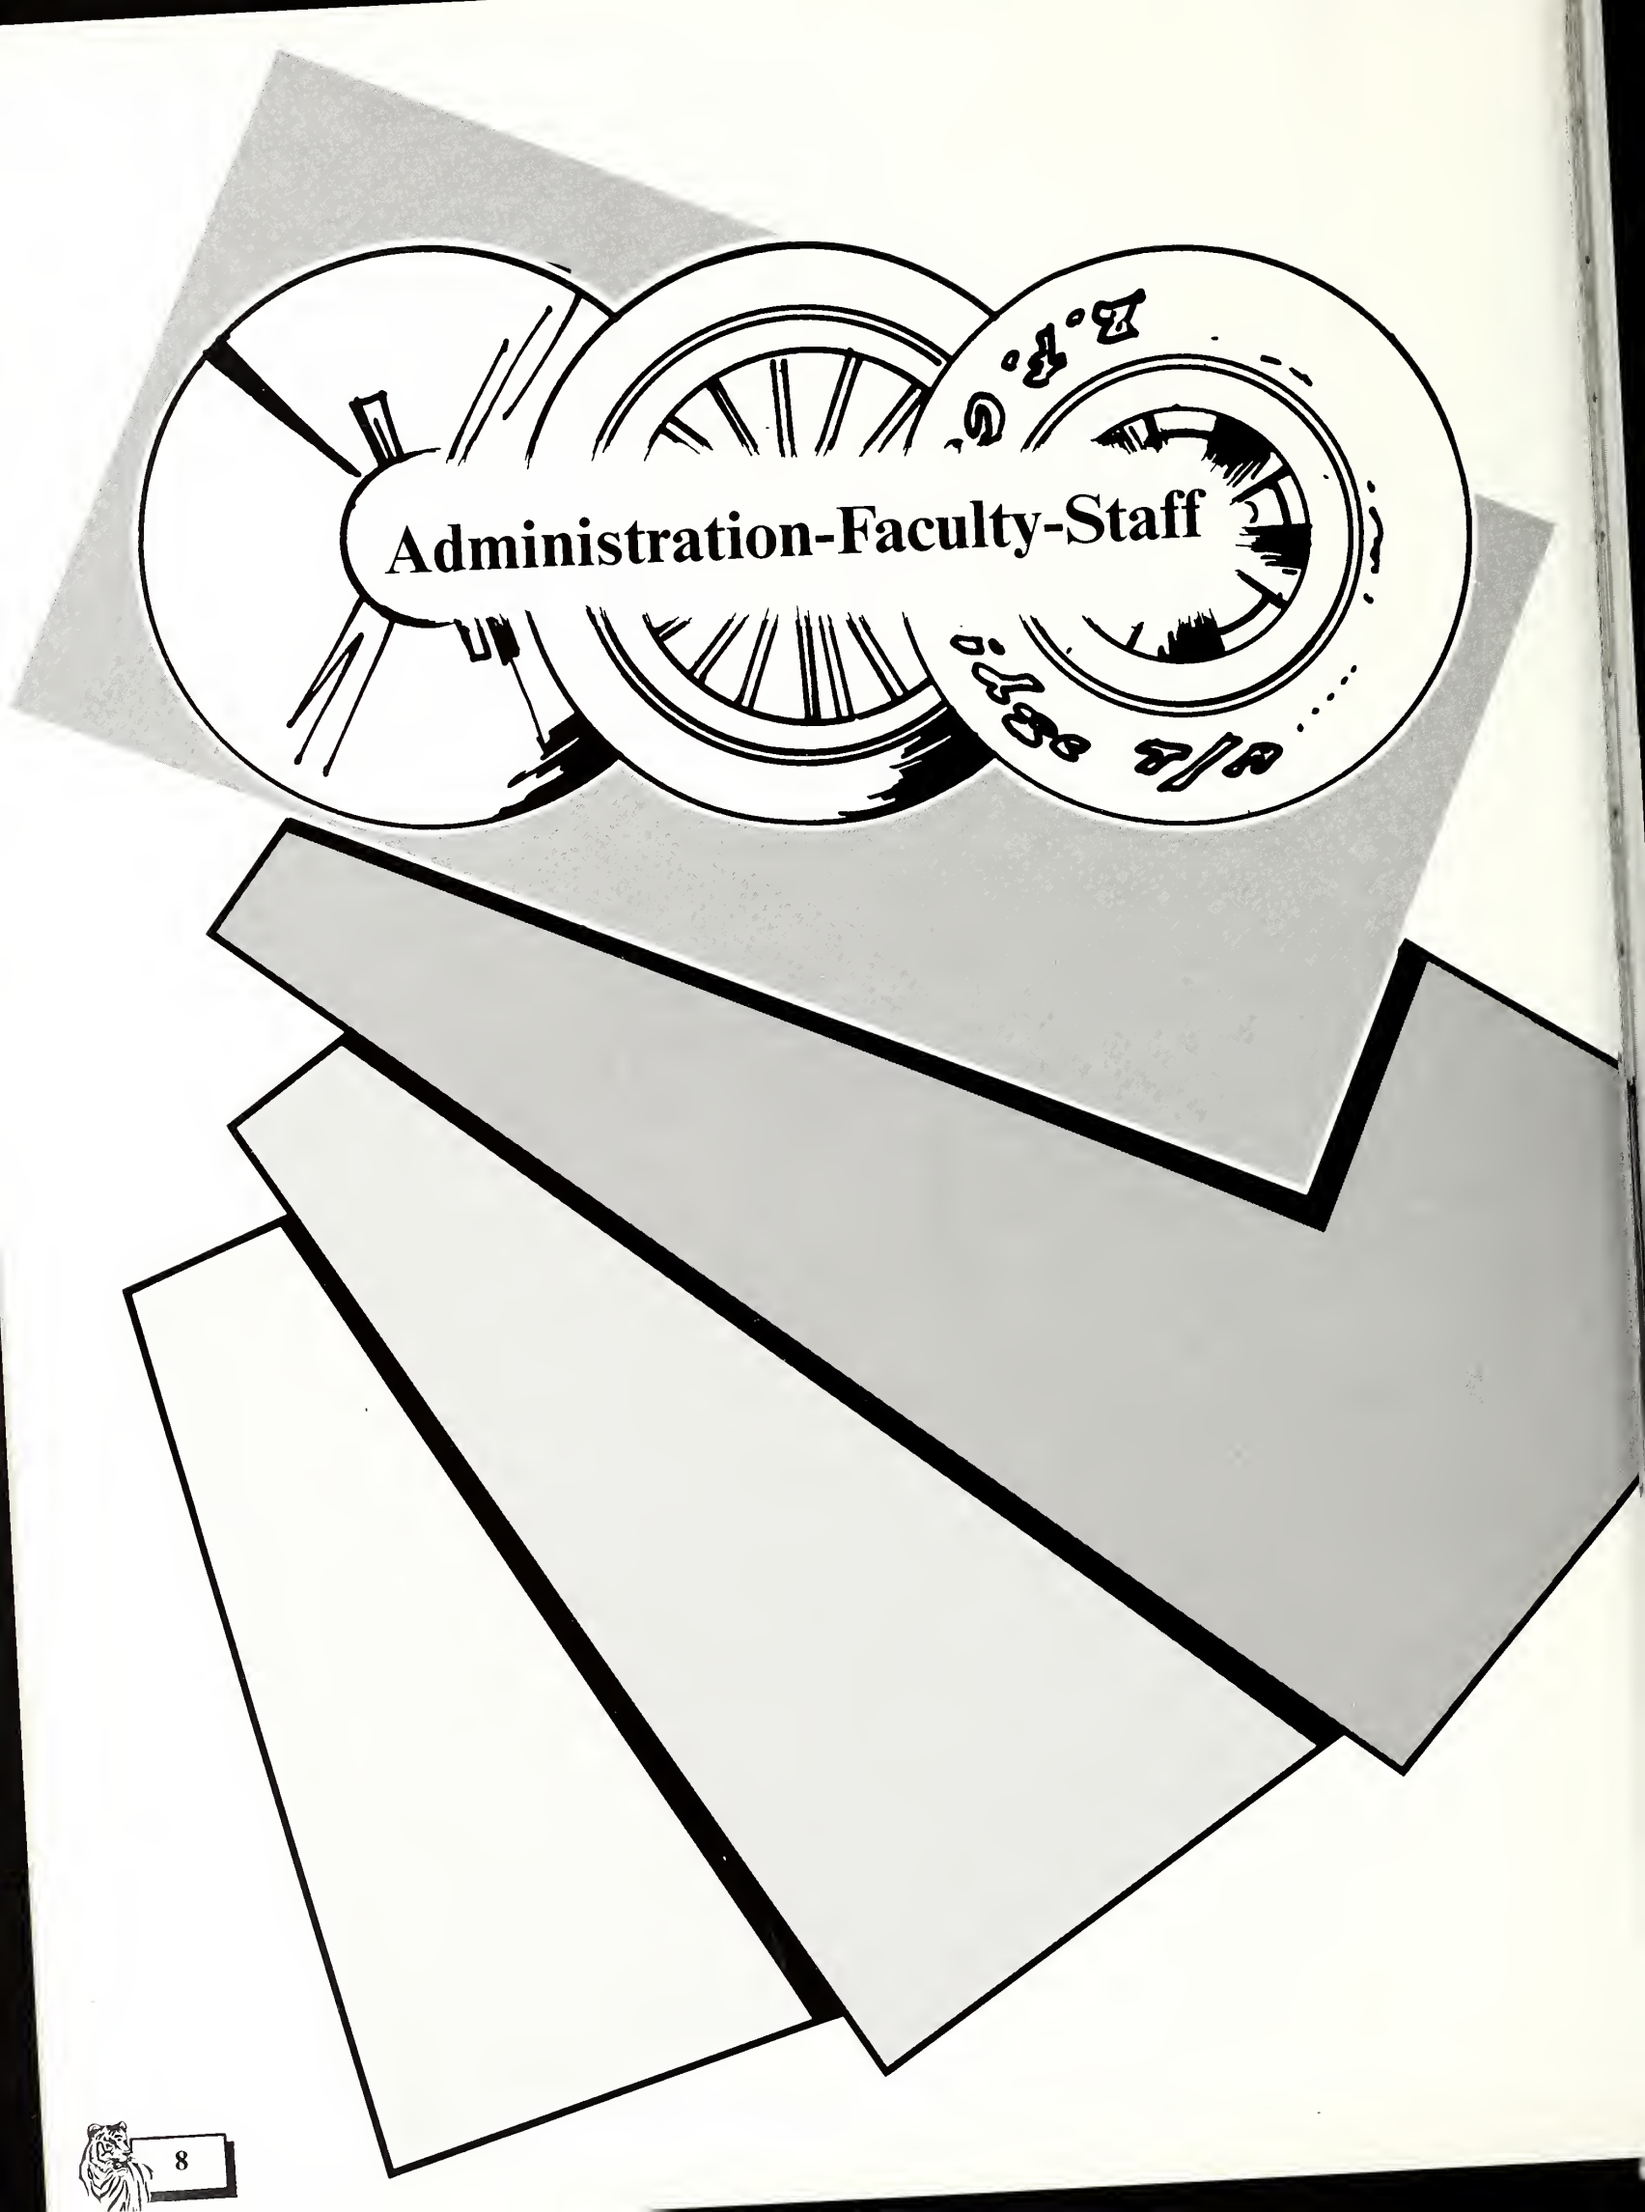

We believe the school should provide a variety of experiences for all students: to aid in the development of the basic skills and knowledge in a given vocation for those who have shown certain interests and abilities; and to provide sound preparatory training for students who wish to continue their education beyond the high school level.

We believe that each child should be assured of an educational opportunity, restricted only by his limitations.

It is our belief that there should be a close liaison between the home, the school, and the community for the purpose of developing the potential of each student and preparing him to meet the demands of a democratic society.

Star Student — Star Teacher

A Salute To Excellence

Mr. Marcus Reeves — Mr. James Washington

The Mississippi Economic Council of Jackson, MS, sponsors the Star-Student-Teacher program. Its purpose is to recognize high achievement among seniors enrolled in Mississippi high schools. Both public and private high school students in Mississippi are eligible to enter the program. To be recognized, a star-student must make a minimum score of 20 on the ACT and have a grade-point average of 92 or above. If a student makes a 34 or above, two star-students are chosen for that school. After a star-student has been chosen, he or she chooses a star-teacher; one who has contributed the most to his educational development.

Marcus Reeves

Marcus Reeves, a native of Jonestown, MS, is an outstanding individual. After graduating from Jonestown Elementary School in 1984, he came to Coahoma Agricultural High School where he has been an honor roll student each year. He has made considerable accomplishments and has made the Coahoma Aggie family proud of him. He has received numerous awards. Among them are Who's Who Among American High School Students, National Science Merit Award, President's Academic Fitness Award, The National Honor Roll and many others.

Marcus is also very versatile. He served as president of the student council, editor-in-chief of the Yearbook, captain of the basketball team, a member of the baseball team, and even held a part-time job.

In the future Marcus plans to become a physician specializing in surgery. As of now, he plans to attend Coahoma Junior College and later further his studies at an accredited medical school.

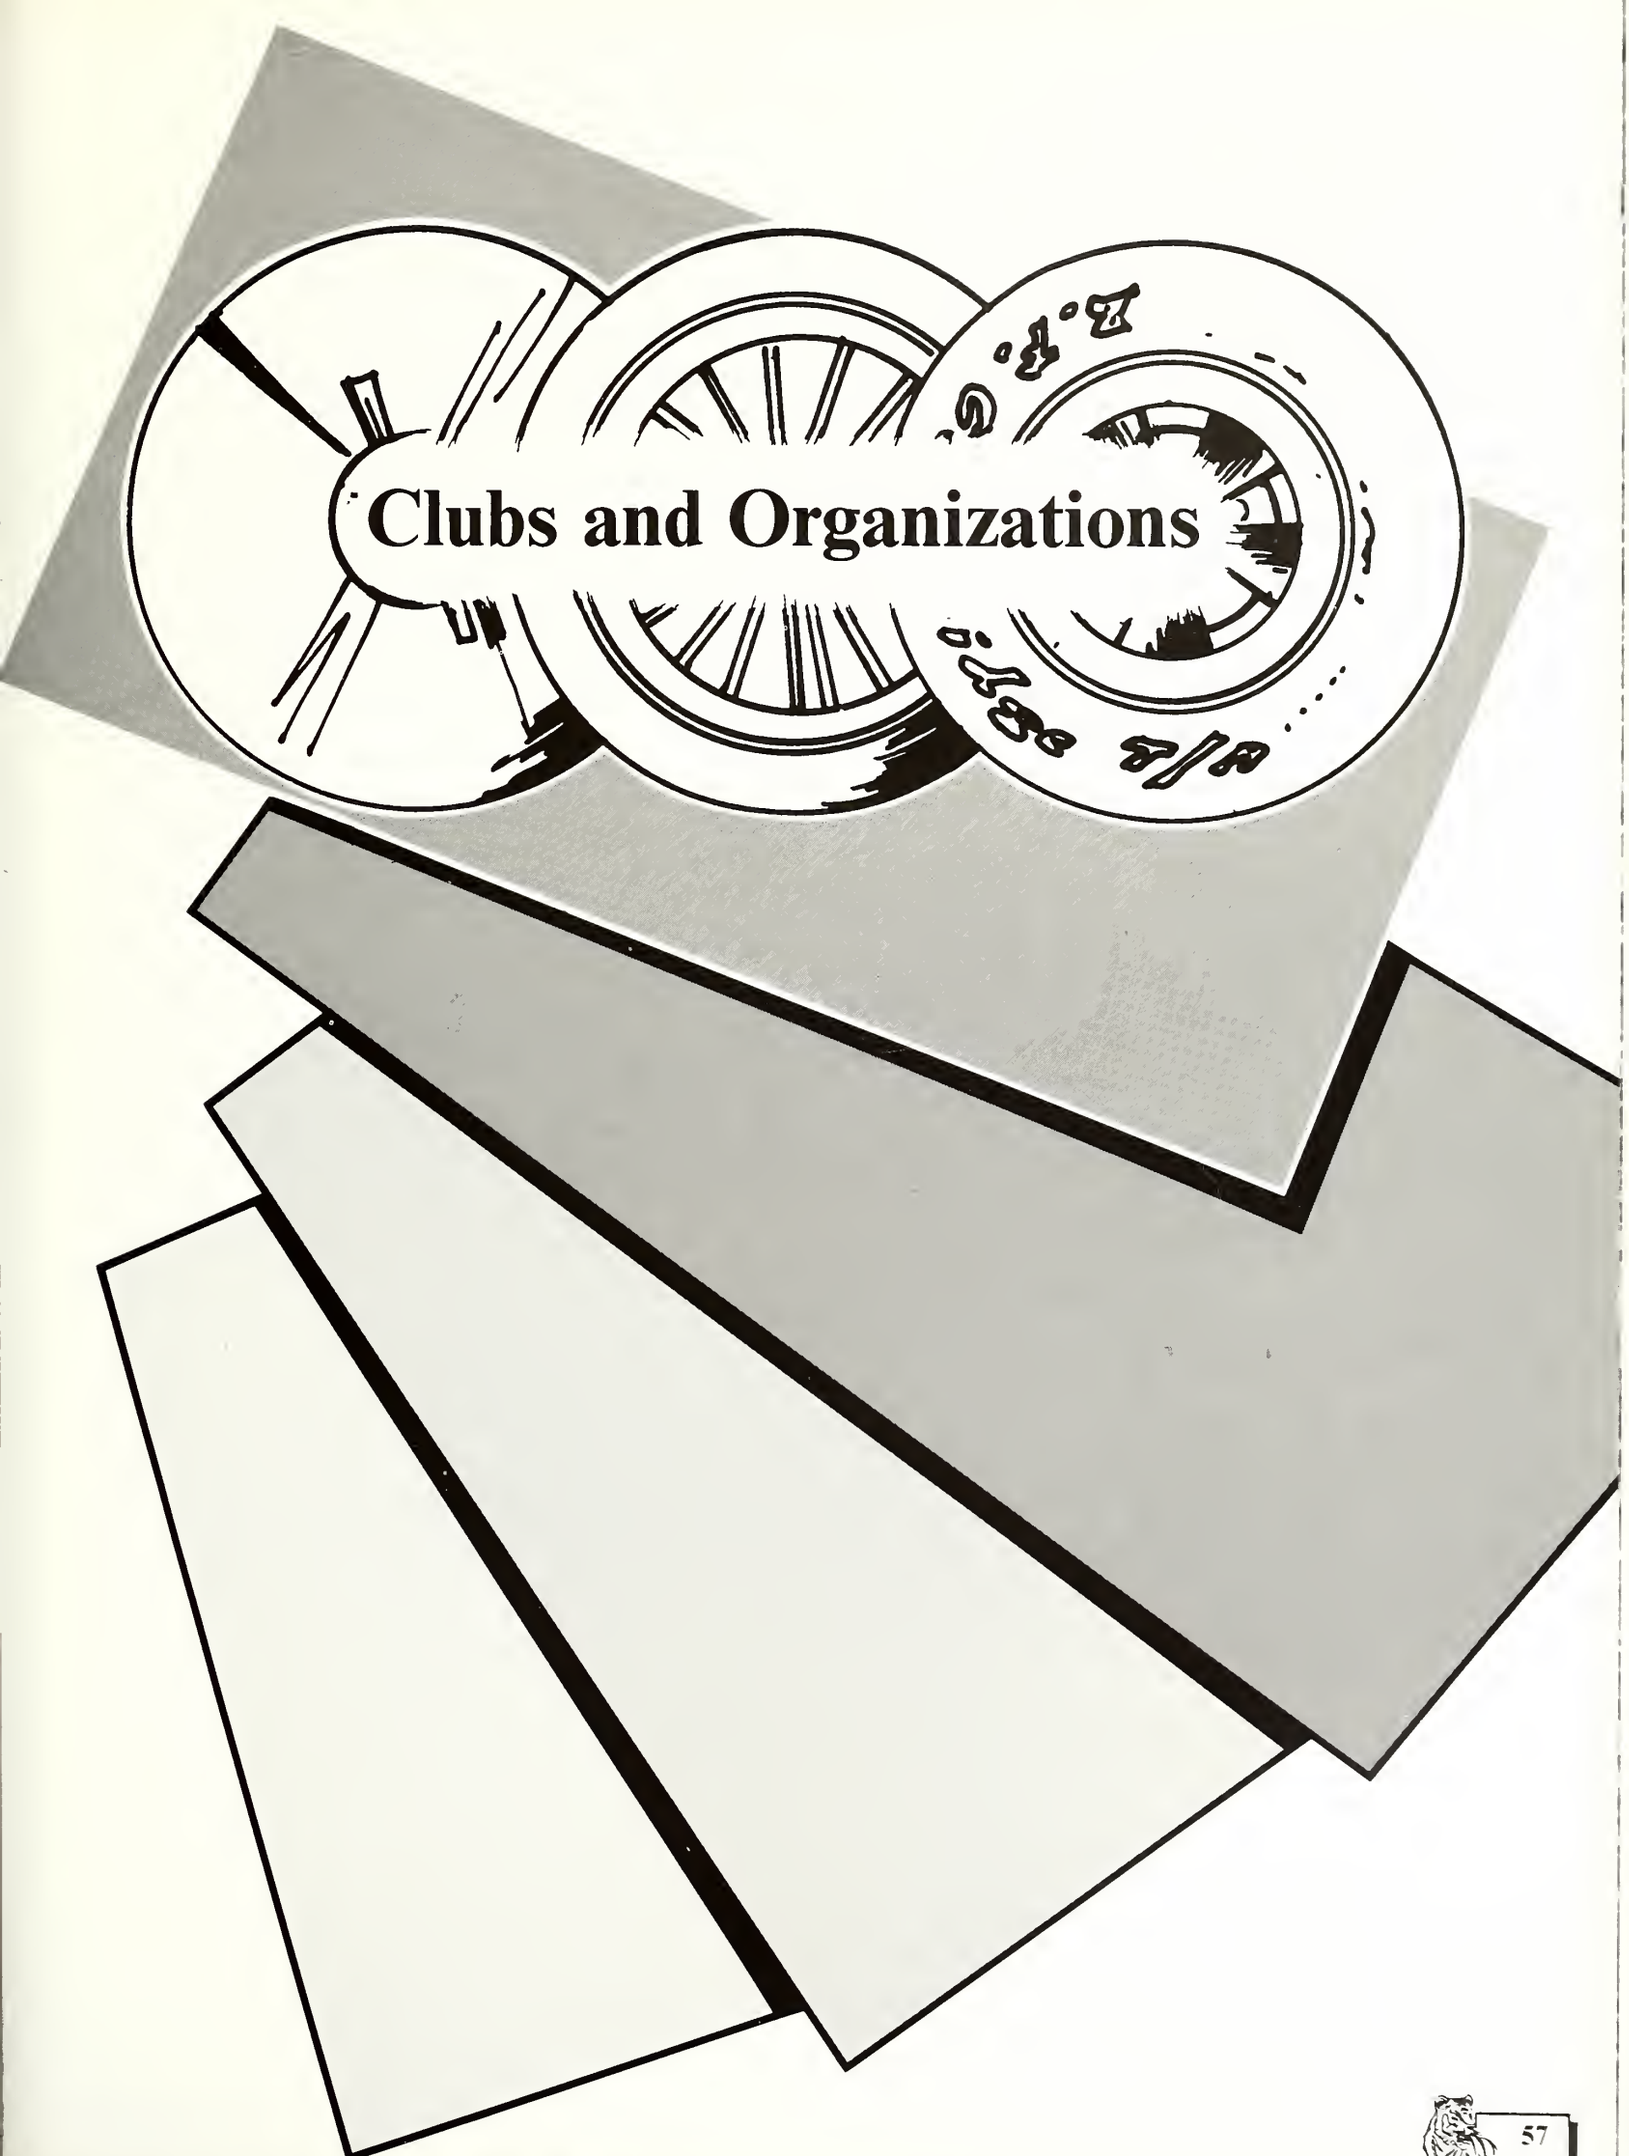

James Washington

Coach James A. Washington, a former graduate of Coahoma Agricultural High School, Coahoma Junior College and Campellville College of Kentucky, is a man of many dimensions.

Coach, as he sometimes prefers to be called has been molding and influencing the minds of youths for many years. No stranger to education or sports, he has been teaching and coaching basketball for fifteen years. With a record of 342 wins and 96 losses, he enjoys being among those in the winner's circle.

Another one of his dimensions is politics. He has been the mayor of Friars Point for the past twelve years.

Presently, James Washington holds a Master of Education degree from Delta State University and teaching U.S. History and Government and coaches both men high school and college basketball.

A word from the editor . . .

Again, we have successfully completed an edition of the Aggian. Our diligent staff has spent hours preparing this book so that we could present to you a picturesque view of the memories of this institution that we hold dear. The work was not always easy and at times we thought we wouldn't meet our deadlines, but we overcame our obstacles to give you the best.

The theme of this year's book is "Wheels To Progress." We consider each member of Aggie, be it an administrator, an instructor, or a student, a "wheel" because each of you have contributed to its progress by merely being a part of it.

I extend a sincere thanks to the faculty, staff, and student body who have "pitched in" to make this publication another part of the never ending progress of our school. I would also like to convey a special gesture of gratitude to the staff who exemplified determination, pride, and most of all, dedication in constituting our yearbook.

We have deeply enjoyed presenting this year's Aggian to you in spite of the tedious work and long hours that we have put in making it the best it can be. We hope that you have enjoyed the Aggian and that you can capture the spirit and enthusiasm that is present in every hallway and classroom and on every sidewalk of Coahoma Agricultural High School.

Francis B. Silket
Editor

Felecia Johnson, Co-Editor

As the 1988-89 Co-Editor of this year's annual, it gives me great pleasure to present to you, the Aggian, your 1988-89 annual. I must admit that I have enjoyed working on the yearbook and working with the staff of the yearbook. I must also admit that it does give me great pleasure to present to the Aggie fans a special and memorable book, one that they can treasure for the rest of their lives. In order for us to support this year's theme, "Wheels To Progress," we had to spend plenty of time during school and after school with our patient advisor, Ms. J. Powell, to gather many photographs and newspaper clippings and to think of different ways to do each page. I truly hope that your viewing of our 1989 Yearbook is an enjoyable one because we did our best to develop a lasting memory.

Thank you,
Felicia Johnson

A Special Honoree . . .

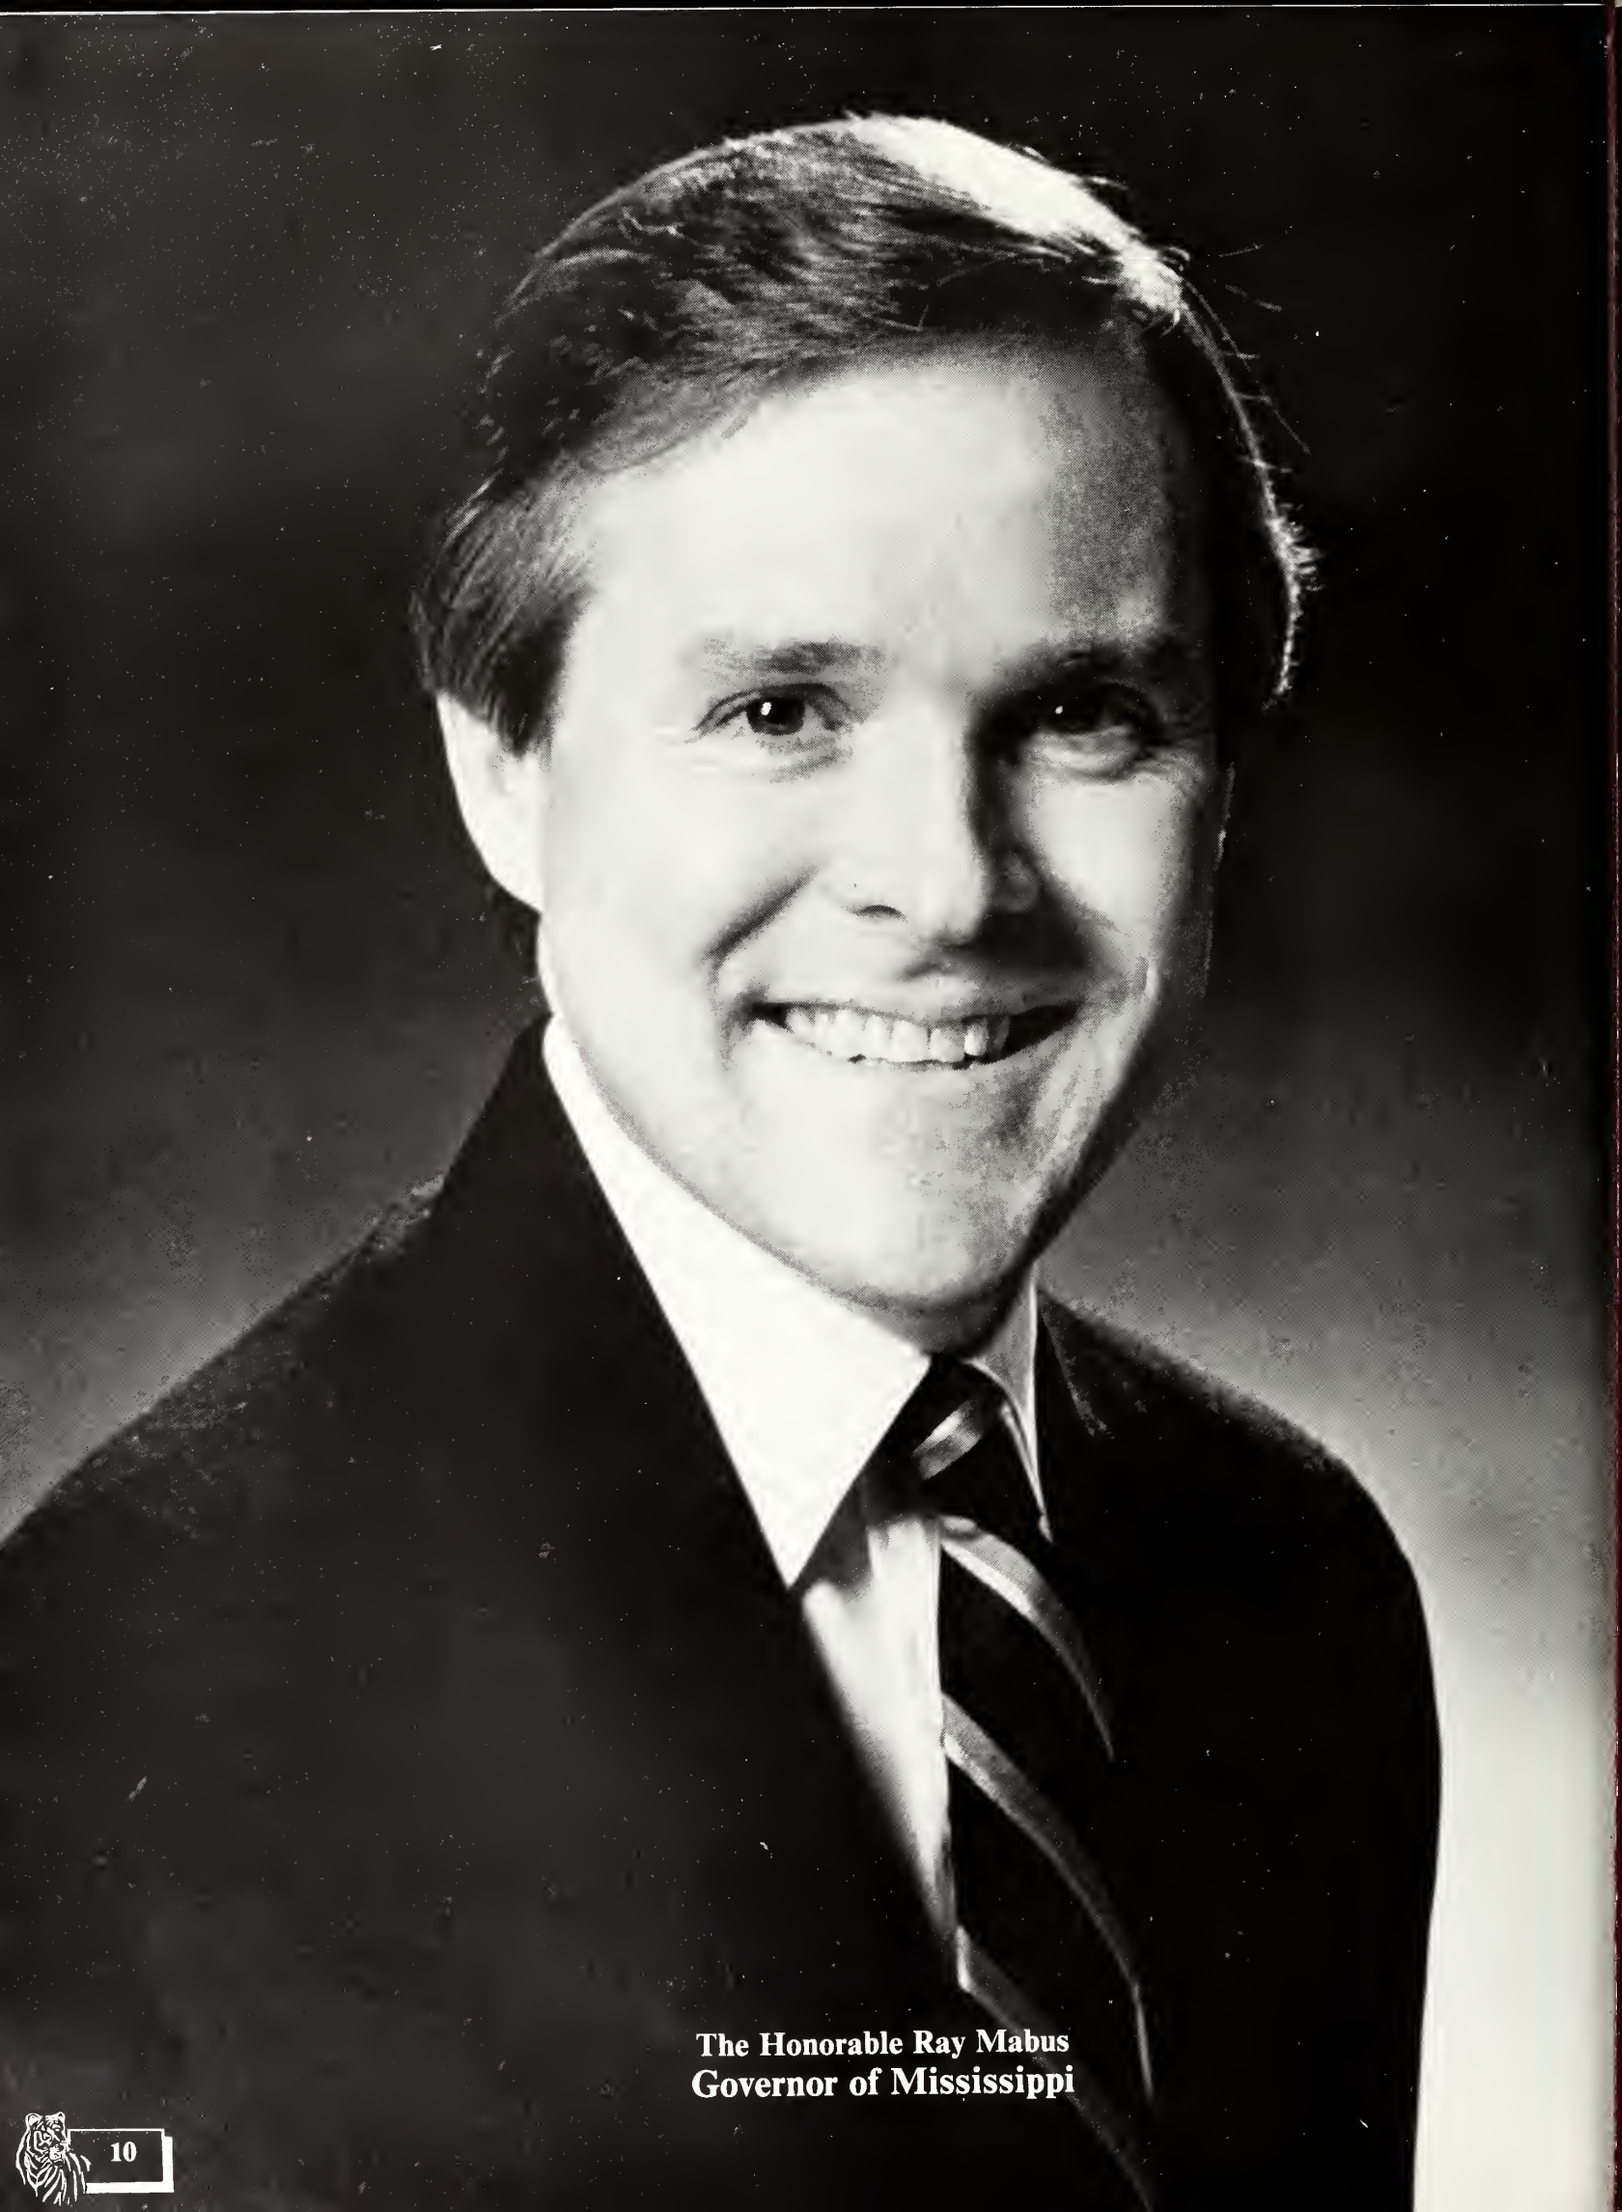

Rita Sargeant Hanfor, who grew up on the campus of Coahoma Junior College and Agricultural High School, attended Sandy Bayou Elementary School and graduated from both Agricultural High School and Coahoma Junior College with honor and distinction.

After graduation in 1969 from Coahoma Junior College, she transferred to Alcorn State University, where she received a B.S. degree in Business in 1971. After graduation from Alcorn State University, she became secretary to the Registrar at Coahoma Junior College. She served in this position so amicably that, in 1974, she was appointed Acting Registrar — a position she held until the administration was reorganized in 1980. At that time, Mrs. Hanfor was appointed Dean of Admissions and Records.

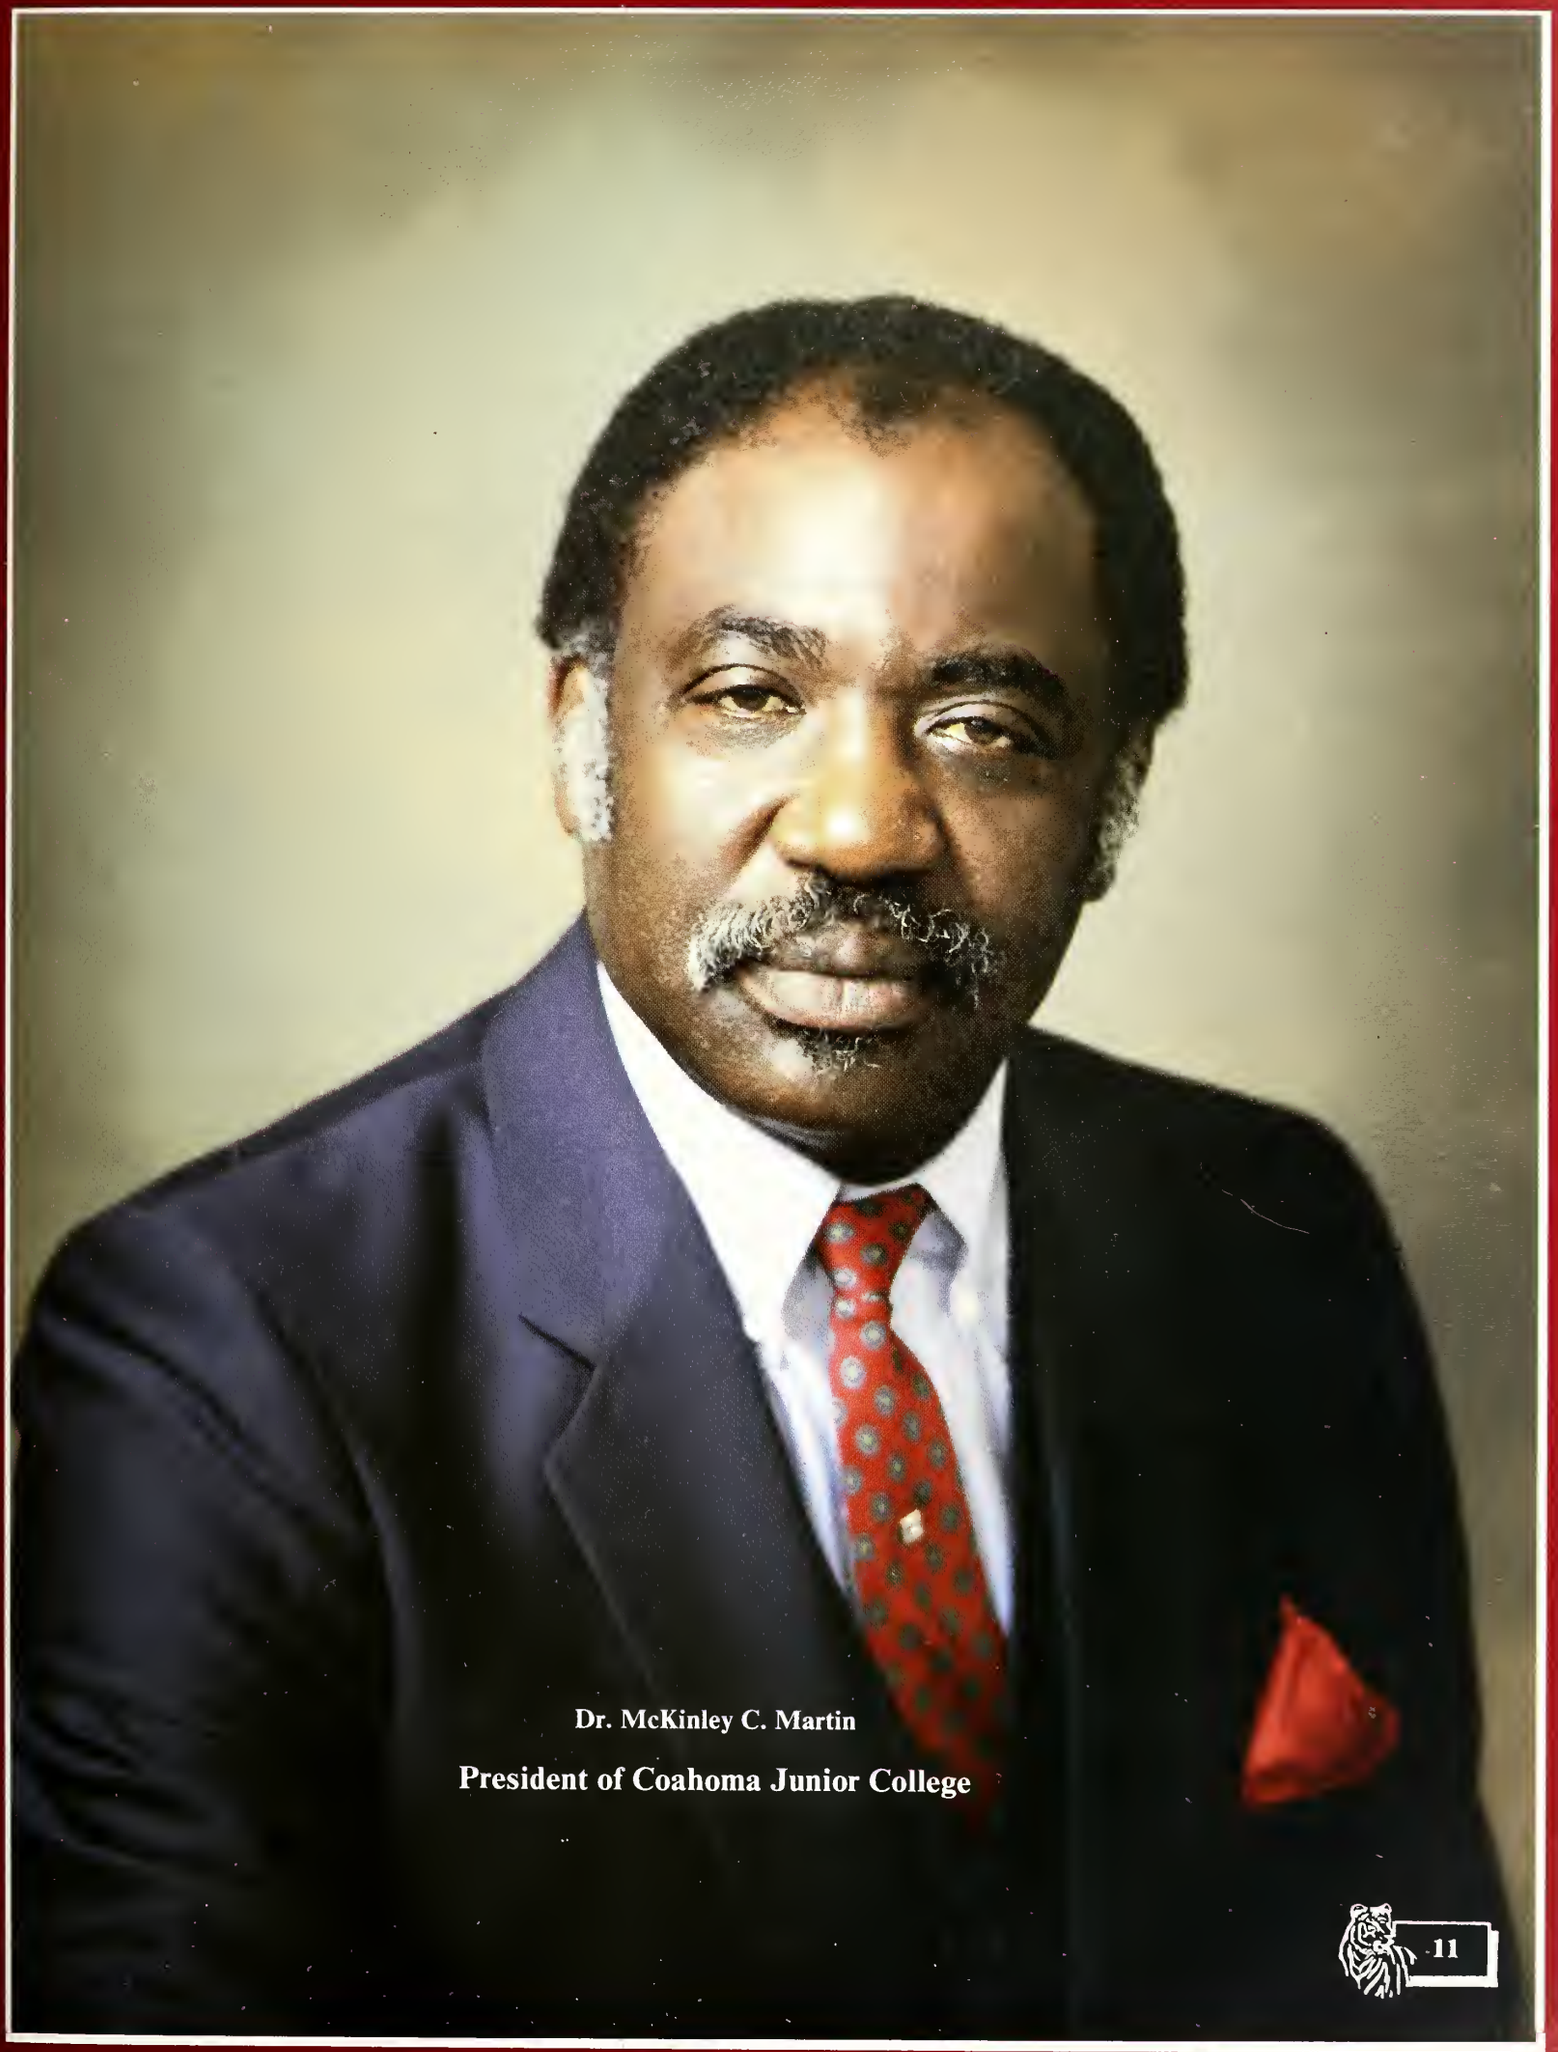

From childhood Rita has been a loyal supporter of all programs of Sandy Bayou before it was dissolved and of Coahoma Junior College and Agricultural High School. She served under the leadership of all Coahoma Junior College band directors — Miss Consuella Carter. Mr. Michael Jossell, and now, Mr. T. J. Jones. Also, she serves as special director for the auxiliary corps and is responsible for its unique performance in parades and special shows.

Having watched her from Little Rita to Mama Hanfor the administration, faculty, staff and students salute Rita Sargeant Hanfor by dedicating to her the 1989 Edition of our school Yearbook.

COAHOMA JUNIOR COLLEGE

Lady Tigers honored for season's work

Solemnity pervaded the occasion. A hushed roll of drums and a parade of flags and banners preceded honorees as they took their places. Coach Ella Stampley, the Lady Tigers, their foster parents, and guests were escorted to places of honor, while the audience stood.

Dr. Jimmy Wiley opened the program with the catchword "Triumph," the theme for the appreciation assembly held recently in Reid Gymnasium for the Lady Tigers. Since all games had been played, the victory now belonged to Coach Stampley and the Lady Tigers, Wiley emphasized.

Vice-President Charles Reid extended congratulations in President M.C. Martin's absence: "You have certainly earned all the recognition you've received. Coach Stampley has provided you with outstanding leadership. Congratulations again!"

"You have certainly earned all the recognition you've received."

Reid then extended his personal congratulations and duly noted that at a recent meeting of 15 junior colleges, the presidents drew up a proclamation of recognition and congratulations to Stampley and the Lady Tigers for their seventh place victory in the National Junior College Basketball Tournament.

Other speakers on the program were Miss CJC, Tamara Brown, who expressed pride in the victors, and Mitchell Allen, SGA president, who presented congratulation on behalf of the student body.

Coach Stampley solemnly responded: "It's good to win — we had 25 wins to 10 losses, and fought, worked, and sweated for it."

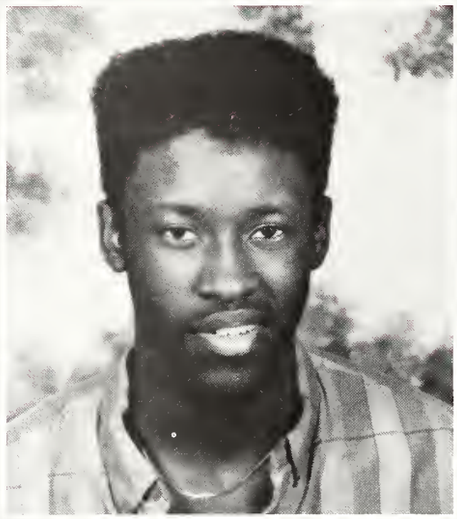

Stampley spread the compliments around — to the cheerleaders, managers, fans, parents, and forster parents. "You shared in the losses as well as the victories. Without all of you, our victories would be hollow."

Singled out for special honors at a recent assembly for the CJC Lady Tigers were Mary Ann Tribble (All Star, All State, All Region), Annette Davis (All Star, All State, All Region Tournament), Coach Ella Stampley, and Lisa Washington (All National Tournament, All Star, All State, and All Region Tournament. IN MEMORIAM
RAYFORD KEYS

Mention Rayford Keys to any of his students or colleagues and they'll tell you they never knew a gentler, nobler person, or a finer teacher.

His gentleman's wit, sophistication, and intellect manifested themselves in all his accomplishments. He worked diligently so students could learn not only scientific principles, but principles of life.

His loyalty, dedication, and sense of duty to Coahoma Junior College were unmatched. A sense of perfection characterized everything he did.

A dapper appearance, a smile, a cordial greeting, a tip of his hat — all were trademarks of the man's gentility.

Illness did not diminish his kind demeanor or mild-mannered disposition. He seemed to persevere it spite of the affliction.

Rayford Keys

We will all miss Rayford Keys. Coahoma Junior College and Agricultural High School lost a great teacher and a fine human being.

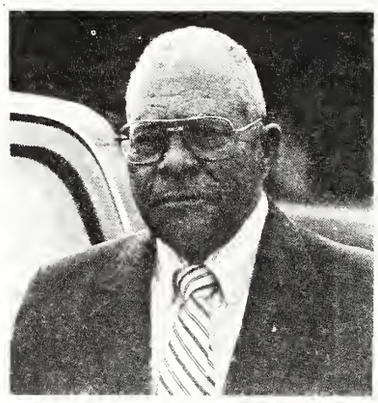

As a memorial to Mr. Keys, Room 6 of Whiteside Hall has been named the Rayford Keys Physical Science Laboratory.

In Loving Memory

"Nature's first green is gold,
Her hardest hue to hold.
Her early leaf's a flower;
But only so an hour.
Then leaf subsides to leaf.
So Eden sank to grief,
So dawn goes down to day.
Nothing gold can stay."

Mr. Benjamin Franklin McLaurin, we take great pride in exalting you, our first beloved president.

Colleges first president, B.F. McLaurin, dies May 2

B.F. McLaurin

Services for one of Coahoma County's outstanding educators, Benjamin Franklin (B.F.) McLaurin, who was instrumental in founding Coahoma Junior College and served as its first president, were at 2 p.m. Sunday at Marion Reid Auditorium on the CJC campus.

Officiating was the Rev. L.L. Guy with burial in McLaurin Memorial Garden. Century Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Mr. McLaurin died of an apparent heart attack at his home, 922 McKinley St., May 2, 1988. He was 77.

In 1949 during Mr. McLaurin's third year as superintendent and principal teacher at Coahoma Agricultural High School, he and four others were successful in expanding the school into a junior college.

Influential in numerous community activities, he was trustee and steward of Friendship A.M.E. Church, and spearheaded many financial drives for the Boy Scouts and March of Dimes. He was a leader in Democratic Party Politics and a member of the NAACP.

Mr. McLaurin was the oldest of 11 children. His parents were the late Rev. Vert T. and Mrs. Jessie Ratliff McLaurin, and he was born July 21, 1909, in Mt. Olive. His early education began there in Covington County.

In 1935 he received a BS degree at Alcorn A&M College and earned a master's degree from Tuskegee Institute, with additional studies at New York University.

He first came to Coahoma County as an agriculture teacher at Coahoma Agricultural High School, and after five years moved to Mileston with the Farm Home Administration. In 1942 he returned to Coahoma County as farm garden food preservation supervisor for King and Anderson Plantations. From there he went to Florida Normal and Industrial College in St. Augustine, Fla. In 1945 he joined the agriculture department of Alcorn A&M and the next year returned here as superintendent and principal teacher at Coahoma A.H.S.

He married the former Sezzie Mae Weakley, who preceded him in death. Following retirement from education, he founded the McLaurin Memorial Garden Cemetery.

He was a member of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, the Elks, and Masons. He was also a member of the Mississippi Education Association, the National Education Association, the American Teachers Association, ARTA, and NRTA.

Surviving him are two sons, Lt. Col. Benjamin F. McLaurin Jr. and Dr. Johnnie W. McLaurin; a grandson, Kevin McLaurin; his stepmother, Mrs. Vert McLaurin of Mt. Olive; six brothers and two sisters including Griffin McLaurin of Tchula, Joseph McLaurin of Jackson, Albert McLaurin of Collins, Mrs. Elizabeth Gowan of Mt. Olive, Johnnie McLaurin, Samuel McLaurin, Vert McLaurin, and Mrs. Jessie Ruth Willis, all of Springfield, Mass.

CLARKSDALE — Last Sunday Benjamin Franklin McLaurin stepped from one home to another.

More than a thousand mourners filed past his flag-draped bier at Reid Auditorium on Coahoma Junior College's campus. The faculty — ladies resplendent in white honoring McLaurin's heavenly homecoming — formed a double line bearing floral tributes. Dignitaries, black and white from across the country, joined in prayer. The campus choir sang Going Home.

It was fitting that the final journey for B.F. McLaurin, 77, began from the grounds of the junior college he helped found, the school where a homelike atmosphere nurtured disadvantaged students.

"There was a family feeling about the place," said alumnus James Harris, superintendent of North Panola Consolidated Schools. "I was one of a large family. We grew up poor people, as did many in our community. Mr. McLaurin made it possible for a lot of people like ourselves to attend school."

For Harris, that meant a potato scholarship.

His father, Marvin Harris of Sardis, planted a potato crop in 1959, intending to use profits to send his sons to school. But the market failed.

"Mr. McLaurin agreed to take the potatoes instead," Harris said. "They were used in the cafeteria in exchange for our tuition and board."

Seeds of success blossomed from that potato harvest. Harris' brothers, who like himself cleaned classrooms and drove the school's bus to pay expenses, are principals in Memphis, a classroom teacher and an accountant in Chicago.

"There was an attitude there that if people wanted to make it, they would provide some kind of help," Harris said. "It was a special bond. If you needed to get home and didn't have bus fare, Mr. McLaurin saw to it that you went.

"He was a people's president, close to the students. Some of us when we move up are just seen from afar. Mr. McLaurin didn't separate himself."

No educational institution has more humble beginnings than Mississippi's first black junior college.

"He instilled a level of responsibility in me," Martin said of the man who paid him $1 a week to keep the halls clean. "I made certain other kids didn't mess up those halls."

The strong-minded academician worked for consolidation of county schools and accreditation of the CJC system, dreams he saw fulfilled within his lifetime.

"Best of all, he lived to see the teacher pay raise signed," Martin said. "He really believed in that. He understood his own limitations and knew he couldn't do everything himself. So he tried to get the best teacher for every position. He brought so many wonderful educators to this state. And he fought to pay them good salaries so they wouldn't be lost to other institutions."

McLaurin's influence was felt throughout the Delta. An Elk, a Mason and a member of Omega Psi Phi fraternity, he was a lay leader at Friendship AME Church. Adviser to politicians, McLaurin was a mentor to U.S. Rep. Mike Espy, who attended his funeral.

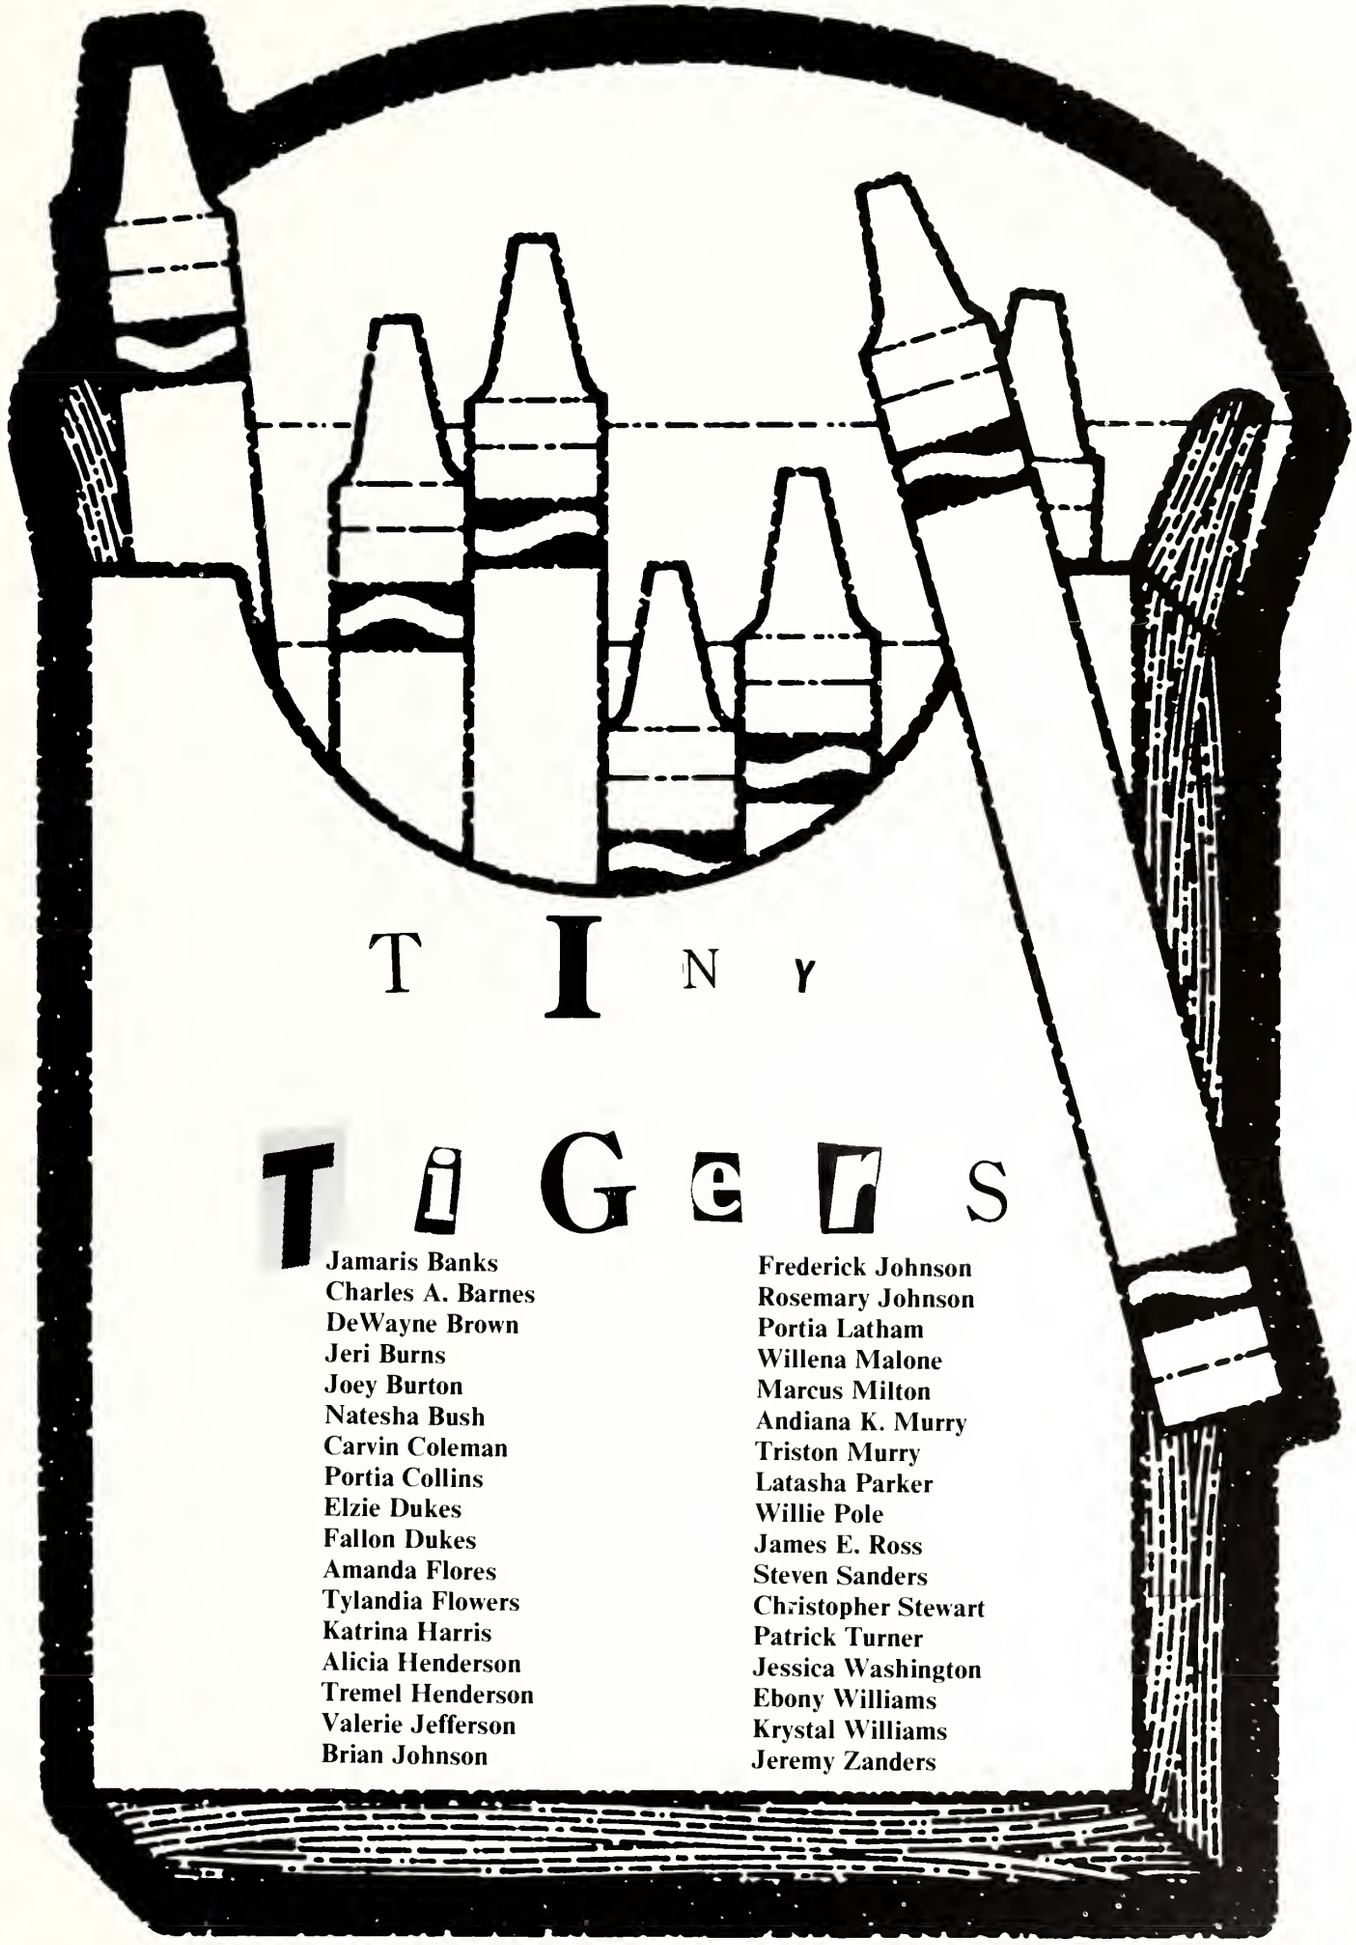

"He was one of the first black school administrators in the '60s who admitted he was a member of the NAACP," Martin said. "Mr. McLaurin said, 'There comes a time when a man must be a man.' "

That was the man they buried last week in the cemetery he founded. But B.F. McLaurin's dream is resurrected daily in the lives of educators across Mississippi.

Arun Gandhi, seated second from right, visited CJC to discuss plans for reserch which will need the assistance of CJC social science students. With Gandhi are, from left seated, Dean Earl Gooden, Sunanda Gandhi, and Dr. Bruce Williams of the University of Mississippi. Beatrice Reid and Tommy Johnson, standing, social science instructors, will help students with the interviewing process.

For the Coahoma Junior College Athletic Department and Tiger fans across the country, 1988-1989 can be looked upon as a year of triumph, a year of change, and a year of national exposure.

Let's begin with the triumphant and action-packed season finale of the 1987-88 Lady Tigers. Due to a very well-organized and tightly knitted group of young women and a very capable coach, Ella Stampley, the Lady Tigers finished the season as the seventh ranked team in the nation. During their journey to the top, the girls finished second in the state tournament and went on to win the regional tournament.

In the midst of the athletic department, three new coaches make their presence known. Other than our faithful and dependable Coach A. B. White, our football coaching staff made a complete change. New head coach, Coach Robert "Bob" Holloway, new defensive coordinator Roosevelt Ramsey, and new assistant coach, Coach William West, along with Coach White brought into this year's summer camp and football season, a new attitude with better concepts ideas, and a more organized team. Although the season was not a complete success, it was not complete failure. The Tigers did manage to bread a four year losing streak and an estimated fifteen year homecoming losing streak with a tie game on Homecoming night.

This year, a special honor was given to the CJC family by the football team. Along with the 1988 football season came the first National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) All-American to ever play for Coahoma. Myron Martin, through his job as punter, became a first team All-American selector and the first All-American at Coahoma.

The 1988-1989 athletic year has truly been a year that can be recorded in the history books as a year of accomplishments and as a year for which Tiger fans can be proud. But no matter how the games end or how the scores turn out, as long as that Tiger pride and dignity shine brightly, our teams will always be winners.

CJC's Martin named JuCo All-American

Sophomore punter Myron Martin of Coahoma Junior College has been named to the National Junior College Athletic Association's All-American team.

Martin, 5-11 and 217 pounds, led the Mississippi Junior College North Division in punting for the entire season with an average of nearly 50 yards per punt. Martin is a honor student majoring in Computer Science. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. McKinley C. Martin.

Martin is joined on the All-American squad by five other Mississippi Junior College standouts.

Sophomore running back Kenny Taylor of Holmes Junior College, 6-0 and 195 pounds, was named to the First Offensive Team as was offensive lineman sophomore John David Camacho of Hinds Junior College. On the First Defensive Team, freshman running back Mike McClenton, 6-0 and 240 pounds, from of Northwest Mississippi Junior College was named.

Randy Baldwin, freshman running back from Holmes Junior College (6-0, 208) was named to the Second Offensive Team and Westley Carol, 6-1, 185-pound sophomore of Northwest Mississippi Junior College was named to Honorable Mention Team.
